

Statement

I am applying to the student travel grant for ACM Conference on Computer and Communications Security because it will be a fundamental milestone that will significantly impact my research.

My research is focused on developing a general model of enforcement for distributed systems. A central objective of my work is to formalize existing enforcement mechanisms, and to provide theoretical results about the classes of policies that can be enforced.

Due to the generality of my work and the broad range of policies and mechanisms that need to be accounted, gathering input from field experts that attend CCS is an essential experience that will help to validate my work.

Finally, the experience will help me find new applications for the general model and give me the opportunity to meet with potential collaborators.

- Hernan Palombo